Are you my Valentine?

This week we are celebrating the feasts of St Maron, Saint Valentine, and the Sunday of the Priest; three illustrations of forms of love. Nobody can live without love because each one of us was created with a breath of God who is Love. This spirit should always be connected to the Eternal Love or it will die.

St Maron left the world to love God in his solitude. He answered the question that Jesus asked three times of St. Peter: ‘Do you love me more than these?’ God became his reason and motivation to live.

The Valentine’s lovers answer this question differently: I can be myself when I am with you, or every time I look at you, my heart misses a beat, Love is, what you mean to me - and you mean everything... That’s what keeps a spouse with his partner over years; that’s what connects a parent to his child for a life, that’s what motivates youths to look beyond their personal ego, that’s what encourages a priest to continue serving God and others than his family for his entire life.

On this Sunday, we should not forget all those, living or deceased, who marked our spiritual life by their presence and love: birth, baptism, communion, reconciliation, marriage, education or praying for one of our sick members... That’s what gives meaning to our being. Nothing counts more than our love to each other Each one of us is supposed to ask himself: Am I still ‘The Daily Valentine’?

You Are Often In My Thoughts

Love is a command
That Christians are called to do;
Our Lord says "Love your God,
And love your neighbor, too."
Some people are easy to love;
They are human rays of sun;
They light up every life,
And encourage everyone.
You are in that group,
So I sincerely want to say:
You are often in my thoughts;

Happy Valentine's Day!

Valentine's Day Quote

“Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.”

I CORINTHIANS 13:4-7

Saints Cyril & Methodius

Feastday: February 14

These brothers, the Apostles of the Slavs, were born in Thessalonica, in 827 and 826 respectively. Even though they belonged to a high ranking family they renounced secular honors and became priests. They were living in a monastery, when the Khazars sent to Constantinople for a Christian teacher. Cyril was selected and was accompanied by his brother. They learned the Khazar language and converted many of the people. Soon after the Khazar mission there was a request from the Moravians for a preacher of the Gospel. German missionaries had already worked among them, but without success. The Moravians wanted a teacher who could instruct them and conduct Divine service in the Slavonic tongue.

On account of their acquaintance with the language, Cyril and Methodius were chosen for their work. In preparation for the task Cyril invented an alphabet and, with the help of Methodius, translated the Gospels and the necessary liturgical books into Slavonic. The brothers went to Moravia in 863, and worked for four and a half years. Despite their success, they were regarded by the Germans with distrust, first because they had come from Constantinople where schism was rife, and also because they held the Church services in the Slavonic language. For this reason, the brothers were summoned to Rome by Nicholas I, who died, however, before their arrival. His successor, Adrian II, received them kindly. Convinced of their orthodoxy, he commended their missionary activity, sanctioned the Slavonic Liturgy, and ordained Cyril and Methodius bishops. Cyril, however, was not to return to Moravia. He died in Rome, 4 Feb., 869.

At the request of the Moravian princes, Adrian II formed an Archdiocese of Moravia and Pannonia, made it independent of the German Church, and appointed Methodius archbishop. In 870 King Louis and the German bishops summoned Methodius to a council at Ratisbon. Here he was deposed and condemned to prison. After three years he was liberated at the command of Pope John VIII and reinstated as Archbishop of Moravia. He zealously worked to spread the Faith among the Bohemians, and also among the Poles in Northern Moravia. Soon, however, he was summoned to Rome again as the result of the allegations of the German priest Wiching, who impugned his orthodoxy, and objected to the use of Slavonic in the liturgy. But John VIII, after an inquiry, sanctioned the Slavonic Liturgy, decreeing, however, that in the Mass the Gospel should be read first in Latin and then in Slavonic. Wiching, in the meantime, had been nominated one of the assistant bishops of Methodius. He continued to oppose his provincial powers, going so far as to produce phony papal letters. The pope, however, assured Methodius that they were false. Methodius went to Constantinople about this time, and with the assistance of several priests, he completed the translation of the Holy Scriptures. The enemies of Methodius did not cease to antagonize him. His health was worn out from the long struggle, and he died April 6, 885.
